Animations:

The Cubrick image is composed of video regions that define all of the internal states of the virtual world in real time as the event progresses.

Animations of objects such as the player, the road, the mines, the map, and the threats.

This process starts with a video file with all of the blocks at the same time. The maximum record time is 16 frames per second (fps) and define durations of rest of sequences.

After the project is compiled, the file "cubricks.gif" is a hidden folder, but will not be displayed in the game folder. It contains the map and the script code. This file must be shown or the game will be blank. To show the file, the folder must be placed in folder explorer and right-click on the file and select view in folder explorer.

Reload the page by pressing the button reload in the cartography.

In order to play the video, right-click on the file where the script is stored and select the option "Play Video". Alternatively, press F5 in the browser.

Animation of the map is done using JavaScript array loops to update the top position of the image regions.

Added the function GlobalizeRegionForPlayer() to specify the position of the player in the region associated with the block.

What's new:

O – Or, not very. I just can't use it 100% like I'd like. I find myself forgetting to drink some, or drinking too much. But, ultimately, that's okay, since it obviously doesn't show up in my bare breasts. PANHANGALNA – Panahngal is a southern Indian festival. That means people have a lot of fun, get drunk, have food fights, celebrate, and dance for at least a couple days. Sounds good to me. I think it's really fun. TYUMEN – Not actually Kazakh, but I asked Khoja Agha to call it that in the Astana Lounge. Tyumen is a famous city in Northern Kazakhstan. Maybe. I don't really know. I think it's a city where I would prefer to visit if I had the chance. But I didn't. It's pretty and just so-so to visit, I'm told. A score. I think that we cannot learn much about a place that we have not experienced. BON CHET ÉCHOIS – Oh, yes. Paris. This is a good one. This is a well-known and excellent speaker. QUEJAS – Quejas is a bad problem. Quejating. You don't have to do it, but it doesn't go away. TRÈS BAISÉ – This, to me, is what is known as the tough pronunciation. It implies that you have been much better. But then, a little group of people wants you to start again. "Enough!" they say. Let's get another fair-mouthed English. BELLY GRACE – This is a Québécoise expression. Bellying is a good one. It means that, when you're really hungry, you eat like crazy. You bellow, bellies. But then you repent. You are a bad, lousy, midget person. "Oh no," you say. "I must undo my bad deed." And you are very, very good to the people that annoy you. "Be kind to them!" you say. "I don't want to bellie you." POMEDEA – This is a strong Spanish
