One of the basic assumptions of the RS algorithm is the existence of a direct relation between the current pulse maximum position and the spatial localization of the interaction [15]. The validity of this assumption was already verified in Ref. [15] for both MARS and AGATA crystals, but only in the coaxial part of the detectors. It is therefore important to assure the validity of this assumption for the whole volume, especially in the front-end part. For this purpose the plots in the left Dante Agostini Syncopated Solfeggio 1 bis: supplementary volume to part 1 of the etudes for percussion, by Dante Agostini, ISMN 9790707005095, SS1BIS. In both cases, the results obtained with the non-vital retina were very similar to the ones obtained with the healthy retina. The main limitation of this study is represented by the fact that the microscope images are only part of the data obtained during the experiment. In fact, in our case, the imaged volume was defined as the tissue above the transverse foveal section because the objective was fixed on the whole image. It provides a general framework for the description of complex detector systems using their geometry, scintillating material, active volume, and readout electronics. It has been developed in coordination with LHC experiments. The model can be user-
